Ferguson Publishing : 25 Jobs That Have It All before purchasing it in order to gage whether or not it would be worth my time, and all praised 25 Jobs That Have It All:

Based on the latest statistics from the Department of Labor, the 25 jobs profiled here are that will pay the most, grow most quickly, and hire the greatest number of people in the years to come. Each article contains an overview of the job, explains how to break into the field, discusses what to expect from the job, presents salary information, and looks at how fast the field is expected to grow. Jobs profiled include advertising account executives, computer network administrators, database specialists, graphic designers, physicians, police officers, software designers, and special education teachers.
