Much more useful than the AARP book for job seekers.2 of 3 people found the following review helpful. For the professional with cashBy Olaf the wiseWriting style was very good. Many chapters that separate ideas. A well written book. However, suggestions to network and then take them to Starbucks and buying a coffee for yourself and a valued network-person will cost you an average $48/month. Other travel expenses with gas at a lower recent price of (Sam's) gas at $3.39/gallon would be expensive and cost additional money. For me I would not be able to justify the cost. When unemployed, we have no money and what little we have goes to food to feed ourselves. Networking with my friends and co-workers and church people has been disastrous for me. Most of those people fear for their own jobs, wondering why I am out of work and assume I would be a bad hire and make them and their own job look bad. So these, my contacts, shrug their shoulders and say, "good luck." Also, for people like me who are (52) older, my wife has to work and I look after younger (11 year old twins and special needs kids). Therefore, this book can never work for me because I cannot ever have an open schedule. With lame "friends" (acquaintances) and church people who pray but do not offer any real help, I personally cannot do what this book says. Perhaps for others who have stellar connections this book would be great. For myself, I rely on things that don't work like HR people, email of contacts and people I meet here and there, LinkedIn and lame job boards. The author makes some great points and advice on many subjects of employment and talking with people that I took to heart. A good read for the price, and the fact that its on Kindle!

It was a good book.. I enjoyed it

Finally.. a proven, easy system for job seekers over 50 to land a better job faster. Here are 50 simple, effective steps to help you turn unemployment into career advancement. Does your job search need a new direction? Does it seem every door is closed? Our unique 50 steps system will help you immediately. Older job seekers normally spend more time out of work and have more difficulty adapting to the new world of social media, social networking, e-resumes and interviewing. It's not unusual to be out of work for a year or more. Many older workers are afraid to leave dead-end jobs for fear of not finding anything better. The 50 Steps will help you: Land a better job more quickly. Identify and connect more effectively with those who will introduce you to the "Hidden Job Market." Ace your interviews. Create resumes that get noticed. Stand out from the crowd. Network like a pro even if you are shy. I was where you are just last year. After 27 years of consistent employment, I was unemployed twice within one year. Each time I got more connected, more networked and more focused. I talked to executives, head hunters, employment experts, writers, social media specialists, job coaches, life coaches and job seekers and gathered a heap of insights and ideas for getting a better job, faster. From these insights I created an easy-to-use 50-step process to focus your efforts and make the most of what you have to offer. This quick-read book puts you on the path to success.
